Looking Down on Sewer Tunnel Project BUS SERVICE TO Scrap Rubber Bin Fills As ALLIES HIT AT

This is what one of the five shafts leading down to the sewer tunnel looks like to a spectator standing on ground level. The walls leading down to the base of the shaft are heavily timbered down to the rock level. Tunnels branch off from this shaft, on Cen'er street, in two directions. At the lower left is the ladder used by workmen. At the bottom of the pit is a group of workers standing around a loaded car to which a cable from a crane has already been attached. The crane will lift the car to ground level, dump it in a truck and return it to the pit. The shaft is

In the photo above, Joe Doyle, left, an old timer at this kind of work, is holding a light and examining the results of a dynamite blast in one of the tunnels. At the right is Carl H. Tozzer, former county engineer now working on the project. Loose stone in the foreground has been blasted away by the dynamite charge. Workets will haul it away, drill more holes and blast again for another "bite" in the *unnel project.

This is a Black Out

A wartime necessity, it makes people grope their way from place to place trying to go where they want to go, trying to get to the things they need even in wartimes.

This is a Lighted Sign

It pierces the darkness . . . keeps people from groping ... gives them the direction they need to go where they need to go.

This is a Newspaper

It gives directions, too. Its advertisements point the way to values. They show you what goods competitive merchants are offering, tell you when and where you can buy them, where to get the most value for your money.

During a war, time is valuable. Money must be spent wisely. Savings must be made to pay war taxes and buy Victory Bonds.

Because it saves your time and your money, by guiding you quickly to the best values, newspaper advertising is more important than ever during the war.

You Can Buy a New Tappan Now If You Do Not Have a Gas Range

(By Recent Amendment to WPB Order L-79)

It is now possible for families who do not have ranges to purchase without "red tape" a new gas range. This is covered in a recent amendment to the War Production Board limitation order L-79. It means for example that newly married couples just setting up housekeeping, families who are moving into the community without coaking equipment, and other families who do not have ranges, can now have them installed

If you are without a range, install a Tappan gas range now while stocks last. Investigate complete details at once.

ING EXPANSION of glider pilot training program is being launched by army this month. Most present military gliders are of two- and three-passenger types such as the one shown here of mmy's Twenty-Nine Palms, Calif., school, but on order are 1,000 huge silent birds capable of carrying 50 men each. value of mass use of gliders was proved in invasion of Belgium. Crete. U. S. wants pilots between 18 and 36 years of age; plane flying experience helps.

UNSOLVED PROBLEM hitherto has been recovery of gliders after they have delivered fighters behind enemy lines. Army air force here experiments at Wright Field, Ohio, on possible solution. Rope, which runs along ground to glider, is suspended between poles; towing plane's hook catches rope. Besides being towed in groups by a plane, gliders can be launched by vehicle towing them along ground until they soar like kite behind boy.

Sam's plans for all-out serial warfare-by plane, blimp, balloon and parachute-is largescale use of gliders. These pictures show highlights of army, marine programs. Above, three iralning gliders are towed by plane at Parris Island, S. C., marine school.

Second Front Already Created

WHIL Burth containent of I haved States Pages serving to feet of so were after state an expectation of the lagreement is the Richard to open a execut front in Europe was year will be bud neve for German strategist. As for as they are concerned, the second front already has been created.

The United States and Great Britain have demonstrated ability to transport men and equipment across the north Atlantic. It has been proved in the Commando raids that the European coastline can be approached safely in many places. The British royal air force has been making a strong bid for control of the air over the English channel and France, and seems to have established superiority.

These things, plus assured supply of material and additional manpower, are requisites for invasion of Europe and creation of a second front against Germany. Less than a year ago, none of them was possible; the Germans had no more to fear from Anglo-American invasion than they had to fear from Pierce Laval. Their military situation has been changed radically.

Almost as important as the materialization of the invasion threat is the threat, itself. Whenever a new contingent of United States troops arrives in Iteland, its strength must be matched along the invasion coast, where already hundreds of thousands of German troops are immobilized by the strength of the British on the opposite coastline.

Meanwhile, the bombing raids on production centers are continuing-equivalent of a birrage curtain being laid down in advance of invasion to soften up resistance. It is strategy on a colossal scale-a scale so colossal that it almost dwarfs the huge operations on the eartern front.

Two Weeks of Grace

WHEN the obvious good sense of the President's summary of the necessity for tire conservation is compared with the oratorical blowouts and slow leaks that have confused the public, it seems more than ever a shame that the government has waited six months after Pearl Harbor to take its first construc-

The first step will be collection of scrap rubber during the next two weeks. There will not be enough of it, of course, to aveit gasoline rationing as a means of conserving tires, but there'll be a lot of it-and it needed to be collected. The immediate office of the scrap collection is to guarantee two weeks of grace.

Vacationers will buzz off to far places. Sunday drivers will cloud the highways. The occasional driver who takes the rubber shortage seriously enough to conserve his tires will wonder, as many have wondered, who else is conserv-

When the scrap rubber has been collected and found to be insufficient to undo the damage done when the Japanese took 92 per cent of the national rubber supply, when congressmen and special interests have spoken their pieces and when preparable damage has been done to millions of precious tires, gasoline will be rationed Perhaps that still will be soon enough to prevent collapse of the transportation system. before the end of the war-but the United Stries is falling a chance.

Why Germany Can't Win

WHETHER old Marshal Petam, as reported, now is convinced that Germany can't were or whether that is somebody's guess, the firt is that Germany can't win. Millions of Piencamen know it. If it comes to their cars that the old marshal knows it, teo, they'll be encour, zed

Germany cen't win because it is fighting something stronger than the combined military power of its opponents. Even if it overwhelmod them on the field of battle, Germany still would lose it has lost already, as far as that's concerned Every uprising, every German soldder who is made aware that he is hated, every new but of evidence that oppressed populations are visiting for a chance to sirike back adds to proof test Germany has lost the war.

Haler and his plotters thought they would be greeted as liberators. It never occurred to teem, so little did they know of the force of en Atation, that they could not go centrary to the field of Luman development without suftering deteat. They were as feblish as the Bourbans trying to stem the tide of popular revoltt. they were tooked by the saccess of their own hes. Even the Germans politically ment though they are, must know now that National Socialism was a booby trap, not an ideology. It offers nothing that has not been to ed and rejected before.

Cynics who jibe at attempts to sketch plans for a better world order to follow this war ignore a momentous fact—that the very act of admitting a better world order should follow the war is the alternative to Hitlerism. Tacte is nothing new about brutality, personal dietrtorship and pogroms. Human history for the lost 2,000 years is largely a record of attempts to outgrow them. Progress has been madeenough progress to assure the failure of If.tlerism.

Gallbladder Diseases

We pointed out yesterday that the gallbladder is a sort of reservoir for the accumulation of bile but that it is not at all necessary to life because it can be removed without any physiological changes and, in fact, many animals do not possess a galiglander of all

Structures of this band which do not play an active, necessary "I can ex-part in life's processes are very Madge" subject to disease and derangement and the gallbladder is no exception to this rule. It is probably as commonly diseased as any other structure in the body in the persons of people oyer 40 years

Most of its various derangements are due to infection and this is not surprising since all of the blood from the intestine, which is loaded with bacteria and toxins, goes through the liver and is excepted in the bile and comes to restifucia while in the gallbladder.

After this has happened for 30 or 40 years, there are very few gallbladder infection.
